

The reviews are in.

Don't take our word for it—current Sideline users will tell you why instant replay is a game-changer.

“

We've won five state championships in a row. [Hudl Sideline] and the ability to rewatch plays immediately is probably responsible for three of them.

Coach Michalowski
West Catholic High School (Mich.)

Give your players the tools they need to improve.

“Having access to instant replay and Hudl Sideline breeds that championship culture and lets our kids know that we're providing them with the best possible football experience that they can have.”

Coach Cerco
Salisbury Township High School (Penn.)

Back up your lessons with visuals.

“We're really big on filming practice and teaching off of the practice film. It's very easy to run a play in practice and when it's finished say, 'You should have done this' You can run it again, but it's not the same look as them having to react.”

Coach Eck
Lancaster County High School (Penn.)

Get ahead of the game with multiple angles of every play.

“As I’m calling plays, I’m getting information about how they’re defending certain things on the fly, without me necessarily having to look at the replays, but an assistant giving me the information I need most.”

Coach Earl

Lincoln Christian High School (Neb.)

“We used it every series. We had an iPad with one coach who worked just with the quarterback. My offensive line coach had an iPad....The coaches in the press box had iPads, one for offense and one for defense. They would review every series as well and tagging things for halftime.”

Coach Clark

Unionville High School (Penn.)

Focus on what matters most to your team.

“We had two [iPads] in the booth and one on the sideline during the game. Both coaches marked important plans and then were able to communicate with sideline coaches.”

Coach Delinski

Metamora High School (Ill.)

“We have each coordinator watch each series after every possession change.”

Coach Sherwood

Newark Valley High School (N.Y.)

“The most important piece for us is being able to make the adjustments on the fly, rather than seeing it Friday night after you’ve seen the film.”

Coach Davies

Steilacoom High School (Wash.)

Check out our packages and pricing at hudlsideline.com.